Titanic – the ‘Ship of Dreams’

Titanic was the most impressive and luxurious ship (0)___ her time. She was the biggest, too, measuring 28 metres wide, 53 metres tall and 269 metres long. On 10 April 1912, Titanic (1)___ from Southampton to New York. Titanic’s full title was RMS Titanic. RMS stands for ‘Royal Mail Steamer’. As well as passengers, the ship carried nearly 3,500 sacks of letters, packages and documents.

The wealthiest people (2)___ in first class. They slept in private suites and enjoyed delicious food in a fancy dining room. (3)___ facilities like cafes, a swimming pool, squash courts, barber shop and a library. (4)___ second class was still comfortable, third class was much more basic. All 700 third class passengers had to share two bathtubs.

For four days, Titanic made good progress across the Atlantic, powered by three coal-burning engines. But it was no easy job to keep her (5)___ . Each day, the ship’s 175 ‘fire men’ shovelled 600 tonnes of coal into the fire — that’s the weight of 100 elephants! Titanic was known (6)___ the ‘Ship of Dreams’, and was claimed to be the safest ship of all time.

Just before midnight on day five, Titanic hit (7)___ iceberg. The captain knew immediately that Titanic would sink in just a few hours. S.O.S.-signals were sent out to nearby ships and passengers were ordered to get to the lifeboats, fast! Titanic carried twenty lifeboats — only enough to hold around half of the 2,200 people on board. In panic, (8)___ people jumped into the ocean to escape the sinking ship!

As Titanic sank at about 2a.m., the ship broke in two, sending all those still on board into the freezing cold ocean. Most people (9)___ went into the sea died from the cold within 15 minutes. The first ship to rescue didn’t arrive until around 3.30a.m. — over an hour after the Titanic (10)___ . There were around 705 survivors in total, and all were transported safely to New York, USA.
